National Science Foundation (NSF)

Definition of Current and Pending Support:

Information must be provided about all current and pending support, including this project, for ongoing projects, and for any proposals currently under consideration from any source, irrespective of whether such support is provided through the proposing organization or is provided directly to the individual.

Who Must Report:

Individuals designated as senior personnel on the proposal.

What to Report:

All projects and activities, current or proposed, that require a time commitment from the individual must be reported, even if the support received is only in-kind (such as office/laboratory space, equipment, supplies, employees, students). The total award amount for the entire award period covered (including indirect costs) must be provided, as well as the number of person-months (or partial person-months) per year to be devoted to the project by the senior personnel involved.

Current and pending support includes:

All resources made available to an individual in support of and/or related to all of his/her research efforts, regardless of whether they have monetary value.

In-kind contributions, such as:

Office/laboratory space

Equipment

Supplies

Employees

Students

In-kind contributions not intended for use on the project/proposal being proposed also must be reported.

Resources:

Proposal & Award Policies & Procedures Guide (PAPPG)

NSF Chart on Pre-Award and Post-Award Disclosures Relating to the Biographical Sketch and Current and Pending Support